Juvenile System Delinquency

Juvenile delinquency is defined as an act by a minor that violates federal, state, or local law and is therefore subject to legal action by the court system. The juvenile justice system is designed to provide a special treatment and protection to these young offenders.

The system is giving a special treatment and protection to juvenile delinquency. Juvenile Delinquency means a crime committed by a minor or juvenile. Juvenile Delinquency means a crime committed by a minor who is under the age of 18. Juvenile Delinquency is an increasing rate of juvenile crimes and this increasing rate is creating a debatable issue of age determination.

A separate juvenile justice system was established in the United States about 100 years ago with the goal of diverting juveniles away from the adult court system and providing rehabilitation based on the individual juvenile's needs. Juvenile delinquency is the participation by a minor child, usually between the ages of 10 and 17, in illegal behavior or acts that, if committed by an adult, would be considered crimes.

Juvenile delinquency is a problem that has been around for centuries, but it has become more prevalent in recent years. The juvenile justice system has been criticized for its harsh treatment of juveniles, and there have been calls for reform.
